Industrial Dispute in France

An industrial dispute is called by several air transport unions from February 6 to February 9 2012. The scope of the strike is still unknown, but is most likely to entail cancellations and delays of the French air traffic.

If you have any questions regarding flights with Air France during the strike period, you are very welcome to contact your usual team of travel consultants at CWT.

If we receive information about other airlines being affected by the strike, we will send out a new CWT HotNews.

Best regards,

Torben Rodenberg, Director Program Management & Marketing
